Cards are slightly larger than standard index size, about an inch longer and wider. Not laminated, not quite as thick as index cards. Comes with a nice ring, but quite a bit to carry around without damaging at once. I've taken a smaller ring and carry a section around at a time, much more manageable. Cards appear to be a great study guide, I am just starting my education for medical laboratory science and will not test for the license for a couple of years yet. I bought these to help with my hematology class.

Info on cards is really good. Along with LabCe and Harr's MLS Review, this is a sure way to succeed when taking the MLS certification exam. That being said, the material the cards is made of is not the best. It's just barely thicker than a sheet of printing paper. A 3x5 index card is thicker. Do not expect these to last long in your bag without tears, folds, and wears. It's not helped that the large metal ring provided to bind the cards has hinges that don't necessarily fit the premade holes on the cards. To make matters worse, there isn't a box or container included to hold the cards if you don't want to use the ring. Considering the cost of the cards, the stock of the cards should be improved or laminated.

I purchased these cards through the bookstore at my school and I love them. I studied only from the cards and I passed both the ASCP technician and AAB technologist exams the first time. Now I have decided to take the ASCP MLS exam and wanted to update my purchase. The new cards are smaller and come with a ring to attach them to. More convenient and portable than the originals. These cards are a must have for anyone who is either a student or recent grad prepping for their exam

By far the best study tool I have! I have the BOC ascp study book and the clinical lab SUCCESS book. These study cards are the best! It covers everything and hits all the important information! The only reason I gave it 4 stars is because it is made out of paper and not laminated, so it tears really easily. The wear and tear is the only bad part about these flash cards!

Great outline of information in every subject. If you use these cards as a outline for studying and supplement them with your own more detailed notes, you will have no problem passing the registry exams.

So far it has what I need, but the material it is made of is awful. It's just like flash cards made of cheap regular paper and I don't think they will last long.. I would consider laminating them or something but that would be really expensive since there are around 600 cards.

I need to invest in a good laminator. And there are 500 cards! I am so sorry laminator! These, compare to the quality of Polansky's first edition set, are flimsy and printed on regular copier paper. If people weren't so ridiculous and selling the first edition for $500, I would have purchased that set instead. As for the information on the cards, it's great and will definitely help me and maybe you, to pass the boards. If you're thinking about investing in the Kindle version instead, make sure you have a magnifying glass handy and lots of ibuprofen. Good luck!

Bought these as a study guide for the ASCP MLS boards and they are fairly detailed. There's enough room on the cards to add notes. The cards could be sturdier but they are fine. They come with a nifty ring to attach them together which makes them easy to carry around everywhere I go. They're a lot of information. Definitely a good add on to your study notes.
